Senior Experience Designer (m/f)
Location: Mannheim, Germany

Caruso is a digital B2B mobility data & service marketplace supporting the implementation, differentiation and expansion of the connected mobility business. We are proud of being a trusted partner of companies such as Bosch, Continental, Mobivia, Schaeffler, Vodafone & ZF Friedrichshafen. We owe our growing success to simple principles like openness, courage, passion, curiosity, selflessness, innovation, inclusion and integrity. It is the embodiment of these traits that makes Caruso the marketplace for the mobility ecosystem. It is also what we look for in new employees.

A day in the Life:
- Incrementally design UX and build UI designs for key features of the Caruso marketplace
- Following a user centric design process, support the Caruso business team in systematically deriving product requirements from our customer base, building up a set of personas and driving use cases for the marketplace product
- Contribute to mid- and long term UX product concepts like internationalisation
- As part of the Caruso agile development team, follow our scrum process in delivering your work in time, scope and quality

What you'll need:
- At least 5 years of UX and UI design in creative industry grade projects with exposure to the full software life cycle from user centric interaction design, wireframing/design prototyping, interface design, interaction with UI developers throughout product implementation, international product rollout
- Experience in user testing, story telling, and translating between business and technical jargon
- Experience in developing product concepts for branding and UX related aspects of internationalisation
- Strong ability to self-organise and to work in a goal-oriented manner in our dynamic, highly agile, international environment
- Dedication to agile quality principles and methodology
- Experience in agile methodology, in particular Scrum and Design Thinking
- Ability to create rapid, iterative, and low-fi prototypes
- Knowledge of tools and concepts around human-centered design
- Qualitative skills in user discovery as well as quantitative research experience

What you'll get:
MacBook, iPhone, coffee, soft drinks, table tennis, internal events, completely flexible working hours, working from home in your PJs whenever you feel the need. But that is not our USP. We offer the unique opportunity to join a rapidly growing start-up backed by the key players of one of the most powerful and exciting industries. We offer real responsibility where your working environment is pretty much a green field so that it is up to you how to interpret and shape your role. We will encourage you in challenging us – you'll have a say in shaping the mobility ecosystem. As we are growing we want you to grow with us; your colleagues and our management will do their very best to support you in defining your desired career path and reaching your personal development goals. We have a great international and diverse team that is fun to work with and we pay a competitive salary too – of course ;)

Sounds good?
